[Editor's note: While there isn't the usual organized sf-con programming, this doesn't seem to be exactly a programless relaxicon. There is organized entertainment; both professional and amateur music (rock with possible filksong, apparently) and comedy; and at least one modern/postmodern/post-postmodern dancer. If you arrive expecting this, you can enjoy it or work around it, according to taste; if you are expecting the usual relaxicon, you might be in for a shock -- or find out after it's over that the entertainers you would have wanted to see that weekend were there, and you weren't]
